MEMORANDUM FOR: Colonel White

At the Deputies' Meeting this morning it was brought out that General Carroll expects the new Defense Intelligence Agency to be housed outside the Pentagon. In fact, he asked if these buildings might be available and said he might be interested in any other space we vacate. So far this is informal luncheon talk, and there appears to be no immediate problem as he expects to take two to three years to get into final shape.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT: New Headquarters Building

1. This memorandum is for information only.
2. At the Deputies' Meeting on 8 September you stressed the desire for a minimum of publicity on the move to the new building. Mr. Garrison informs me this has been Logistics policy for some months and he does not see any spectacular event which would give rise to special comment. The unitised furniture for DD/I has already been moved in without arousing any attention, and the Class A furniture move should take place in similar fashion. There will be a steady increase in traffic on the parkways as personnel move in, which eventually will be noticeable and finally will be heavy. This, in time, may cause some public comment, particularly if there are large traffic jams at the bridges or other special conditions.
